

Phelan at third, or Zim may stick to his old job, with Recruit McLarry having a trial at the keystone.

It is not likely that any lineup will be put in force for at least two or three days. The first practice game is a week off and this allows Bresnahan plenty of time to give the men a quick once over.

Bresnahan himself will undoubtedly devote a great deal of time to his new pitchers. Robbins and Standridge, the giant heavers, have made a big hit with the pilot because of their size, and he wants to see what is back of their physical perfection. Robbins particularly is in right with Roger, as he is built exactly along the lines the Harp admires in a boxman.

Two good pitchers from the recruit material will be needed to help Cheney, Vaughn and Humphries carry the burden. Lavender and Pierce will have to show a fine line of goods at the start to earn a regular pitching assignment.

The proudest man in the whole United States today is Ping Bodie, former White Sox center fielder, now holding down a similar position for the San Francisco team. In a game against the Sox seconds Ping, with the bases loaded, lifted one of Ellis Johnson's shoots over the fence. A record of his conversation as he passed Jack Fournier at first base is not to be had. But it was undoubtedly choice, as there was always strong batting rivalry between the Italian and Frenchman.

Schaller, another Sox castoff, also knocked a homer.

Yesterday's game between the Sox first squad and Salt Lake didn't do the athletes any good. It was cold, and Manager Rowland did not drive the men. Buck Weaver knocked a double and triple, and Scroggins and Scott did some fair pitching. The seconds were licked by Frisco and the thirds, with six pitchers in the game, downed a picked team in Paso Robles.

Today Rowland herded the men back to the main training camp and started a week of hard grinding. Much attention is being devoted to Larry Chappell, who is rapidly nearing his playing weight. Chappell made an ambitious showing last spring until he was hurt, and care is being taken now to guard him from injury. Rowland counts on the high-priced fellow to do some smashing batting this season.

Considering his weight, Larry is developing considerable speed and does not seem to be bothered by his leg injury. Should he continue his present rate of improvement it is almost a certainty that he will get a cinch on the left fielding job.

Fournier evened up with his rival, Brief, by smacking three singles. Baker cracked two doubles and Blackburne a double and single.

Sox pitchers are still holding most of their stuff in reserve and will not
